

Balázs Hornyák

Balázs Hornyák is a Hungarian flutist, music educator and journalist. He started to work in the field of talent development ten years ago as a mentor of gifted students coming from disadvantageous background. As a music educator he found challenging to teach those with musical talent giving them assistance to start a career in music. Since the beginning of his career He has been involved in projects and programmes designed for talented young people as an organizer of masterclasses, student camps and various out of school activities mainly in the field of music. As a European Music Council Fellow he has had the opportunity to represent the Hungarian Music Council and European Music Council in various international forums and conferences since 2016. Currently, he works for the European Talent Centre Budapest as a talent expert.

email: balazs.hornyak@gmail.com