International Conference:

'Potential Development and Gifted Education'

November 1, 2013

Behavioural Science Institute (BSI)

Center for the Studies of Giftedness (CBO)

General Information:

This conference is organized by the Center for the Study of Giftedness (CBO) and the Behavioural Science Institute (BSI) of the Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands, the same University where this conference will take place. Research of excellence is one of the themes in the Learning & Plasticity group of the BSI. Recently, Dutch government emphasizes the importance of this theme, which is reflected in many Dutch research projects, supported by the Dutch Scientific Research Institute (NWO). This conference offers internationally known researchers the possibility to show their latest research findings concerning excellence and talent development, and to all those who are interested in this area the possibility to hear about these latest findings and to discuss these with the researchers and other experts in science and practice, present at the conference.
